

International Association of Women Police 2017 Annual Recognition Programme.

To honour the recipients of the International Association of women Police, (I.A.W.P.) 2017 Annual Recognition Programme a formal luncheon will take place during the IAWP's 55th Annual Training Conference, in Cairns, Australia, a week-long conference, "Global Networks: Local Law Enforcement" where up to 800 delegates from across the globe are expected to attend.

This global gathering of so many women from across policing and law enforcement, is expected to attract significant national and international media attention particularly on the opening day, Monday 18th September, when the delegates will be in uniform, marching behind their nations' flags through the streets of Cairns. This will be followed first, by the formal opening ceremony involving local, regional, national and international dignitaries, then by the IAWP awards luncheon, providing an unprecedented opportunity for you to promote your organisation to a large and relevant audience.

IAWP President Margaret Shorter, "IAWP has, for the past 100 years, promoted the role of women in policing, championing change to enable women to play their full part in delivering an inclusive service to local communities. Our belief is that women need to be recognised for their contribution, without our annual recognition programme some phenomenal women, and men, would go unrecognized for their efforts".

We are looking for organisations or individuals to help us honour our award recipients by sponsoring an award, listed below. The enclosed brochure outlines the benefits of our top-level sponsorship for the awards, however, bespoke packages can be created dependent on your budget or requirements.

If you or your organisation would like to discuss sponsorship opportunities for the individual awards, or any of our corporate sponsorship opportunities, please contact me or Jane Townsley at janetownsley@blueyonder.co.uk

Sincerely,

Stephanie Harding
